Truman Accuses Eisenhower of 'Do Nothing' Record, Political Betrayal

DES MOINES (UP)—Former President Truman, in top "give 'em hell" form, accused President Eisenhower Wednesday night of a "do nothing" record and "political betrayal."

He charged the President and his aides with "a wrecking job" on the farm program, but said the "worst mistakes of all" were in the administration's foreign policy.

Mr. Truman's speech, delivered before a cheering, record-breaking crowd of 1,200 at a $25-a-plate Democratic dinner, was reminiscent of his famed "give 'em hell" whistle-stop addresses in his 1948 presidential campaign.

He revived a familiar phrase when he said Mr. Eisenhower "deserves to be rejected by the people just as the 80th Congress was, because he is a do-nothing president just as that 80th Congress was a do-nothing Congress."

The ex-president's attack on his successor grew more bitter when he reviewed the farm program.

He said Mr. Eisenhower has "deliberately denied" a 1952 campaign promise to maintain farm parity payments at 90 per cent. As soon as his administration took office, Mr. Truman said, "they began to reduce farm price supports just as fast as they could."

And today, he said, the President is battling "tooth and nail" a congressional attempt to extend mandatory 90 per cent supports.

Mr. Truman said he didn't know whether Mr. Eisenhower planned

Coroner's Jury Finds Truck Involved In Fatal Crash in Wrong Lane

A coroner's inquest jury last night returned a verdict finding that the tractor-trailer truck involved in the collision that took two lives near here April 2 was in the wrong lane of traffic when the crash occurred.

The inquest into the deaths of Gilbert McCabe of Stonefort and Earl Whitaker of Carrier Mills was conducted at the court house by Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons and the verdict was that the two died of injuries received in the collision involving McCabe's auto and the Roadway Express truck on Route 45 near Middle Fork bridge near Harrisburg and "due to the evidence presented, we find that the trailer-truck was in the wrong lane of traffic."

Witnesses at Inquest

In the car with McCabe and Whitaker, en route to Evansville, were Hayward Lyles and Frank Killman of Carrier Mills, both injured, but Lyles was able to testify last night.

Others who took the witness stand were Wayne Collier of Indianapolis, truck driver involved; another Roadway Express truck driver, Robert Leazenby of Indianapolis, who was travelling behind Collier; Guy Pyle, a motorist who came up on the scene; and State Policeman Roy A. Lane.

Leazenby said he was travelling south about 300 or 400 feet behind Collier, that he saw the car approaching after it had cleared Middle Fork bridge but was not able to see the actual collision of the car and the truck.

However, Leazenby said, he could tell that Collier was in his own lane of traffic.

Statements Contradicted

Collier said he was in his own lane, going about 40 or 45 miles per hour, when the car approached. He said it came over the line and hit the drive axle of the truck.

Lyles, who said he was in the back seat of the McCabe car, contradicted the statements of the first two witnesses regarding the position of the vehicles.

He said he heard McCabe say, "Well boys, here we go," and saw the truck right up on them with about half the trailer in the car's lane.

Then, he said, "we were tumbling in all directions off the south side of the embankment."

"Nobody spoke a word after McCabe said his words," Lyles continued. "When the car stopped tumbling I was in the front seat. I had been in the rear. Whitaker was lying there in the front with his head toward me. I raised him and spoke but he didn't answer. I felt his pulse but didn't get any and then I assumed he was dead."

He told of seeing McCabe's body on the ground away from the truck and Killman, who suffered two breaks in his leg, sitting on the ground about 14 feet away from the auto.

The sworn statement of Killman was read to the jury. It said the trailer swung into the car's lane of traffic and the collision resulted.

Guy Pyle said he came upon the scene and made a note of where the impact occurred. He said his evidence showed it occurred in the lane of the auto.

Officer Lane gave a detailed report of measurements he took at the scene and concluded by saying that from all evidence he saw at the point of the collision, the impact occurred in the lane of the automobile.

Truman Accuses Eisenhower of 'Do Nothing' Record, Political Betrayal

to sign or veto the farm bill but "he would like to veto it, of course, because it is directly contrary to his philosophy of reducing farm prices."

If he wants to cut farm prices, Mr. Truman said, "he had better go ahead and do it now—because next year I don't think he will be in any position to do anything about it one way or the other."

"This is one of the most amazing records of political betrayal I have ever seen in all my years of public life," he said.

Mr. Truman said he had decided to speak "plainly and bluntly" against the President "because I conceived it to be my duty."

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson is equally guilty, he said, in helping to wreck the farm program.

"What we have to do is throw them out and replace them with someone who will start back in the other direction," he said.

Mr. Truman warned that "another Republican depression has started on the farms" and the effects are already being felt in towns and cities.

In foreign affairs, he charged, the Eisenhower administration has "drifted into a situation where the danger of Communist domination of the free world is greater than it ever was before in history."

"They have put politics first and the national interest second," he said. "This is a sorry record and a frightening one."

Farm Bill Sent To Eisenhower; Veto Predicted

Measure Easily Clears Congress Despite Warning

WASHINGTON (UP)—An informed source said today that President Eisenhower has made a firm decision to veto the Democratic-sponsored farm bill.

This source told the United Press that Mr. Eisenhower will not be influenced in the matter by political considerations.

Democratic farm leaders doubted that Mr. Eisenhower would veto the measure in an election year. But they said that whether he does or not, the farm bill has given their party a sure-fire issue for this year's campaign.

"Whether President Eisenhower signs the bill or whether he vetoes it, we will sweep the Midwest next November," Democratic House Whip Carl Albert (Okla.) said.

The President "will lose politically either way," he added. "The farmers will know that the Democrats were responsible for their higher price supports."

The measure easily cleared both houses of Congress Wednesday despite Republican warnings of a veto. The bill would restore high rigid price supports and increase farm income about $1 billion this year.

The House first voted 237 to 181 for it. Then in a night session, the Senate stamped final congressional approval on it with a 50-to-35 vote.

The bill would restore price supports at 90 per cent of parity on corn, cotton, peanuts, wheat and other major crops, and two-price plans for wheat and rice this year. It also would increase price supports of feed grains and dairy products.

About the only provision in the legislation Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson approved of was the administration-sponsored $1.2 billion soil bank.

They opposed provisions calling for 90 per cent price props, so-called dual parity, mandatory supports for feed grains, and two-price plans for wheat and rice.

During final debate on the bill GOP leaders in the House and Senate said it was "entirely unacceptable" to Mr. Eisenhower.

In Augusta, Ga., Mr. Eisenhower said through an aide that he still opposed the Democratic legislation because it isn't a "good bill." But he still wouldn't say whether he would veto it.

House Republicans made a last-minute effort to knock out the features to which Mr. Eisenhower objected and put in a compromise price support floor of 82½ per cent of parity for basic crops. The House voted the proposal down, 238-181.

On final passage in the House, 189 Democrats and 48 Republicans voted for the bill. Thirty-five Democrats and 146 Republicans voted "no."

In the Senate, 35 Democrats and 15 Republicans voted for it. Four Democrats and 31 Republicans were against it.

The 669 cities which were assessing the one-half cent sales tax on January transactions represents an increase of 40 over the preceding month. By April 4 the list had grown to 772.

Local Monaco Native Tells of New Rose for Grace Kelly

Mrs. John Hill, wife of the watch repairman at the Grant Jewelry store, is a native of the country Monaco, and recently received a newspaper from there telling of the rose which will be presented to Miss Grace Kelly upon her marriage to the Prince Ranier III of Monaco.

For eleven years floriculturists in Monaco have been experimenting with 3500 specimens of roses in order to produce one rose more beautiful than any to present to the Princess of Monaco. At last they have created a rose which is six inches in diameter with a very long stem and a fragrance that is more lovely and lasting than the most exquisite French perfumes. The rose is a deep purple at the base and the petals are shaded from an orchid color to silver pink. The flower has been named Grace of Monaco.

On Feb. 2 the floriculturists feared that they might lose the rose when the roof of the hot house broke in because of the heavy snow. The group worked for 20 straight hours and revived the flower successfully.

Recently the mayor of San Remo, Italy, conducted a ceremony on the Riviera during which a carnation symbolizing the Prince was baptized. This affair was attended by the Monegasque officials of Italy.

Battle for One Of Two Republican Legislative Posts

Dale H. Sullivan today held on to a slim 102-vote majority over C. L. McCormick of Vienna in one of the closest races for state representative from this district on record.

Incumbent Gordon Kerr of Brookport won handily for one of the two representative posts but Sullivan and McCormick battled for the other position.

The Daily Register figures, after the vote was counted in all the eight counties of the 59th Representative district, gave Sullivan 15,010½ votes to 14,908 for McCormick. Kerr received 19,383.

But the results were all unofficial. All of the counties will canvass their votes and compilations made before the count can be called official.

The canvass of the Saline county vote was scheduled to be held Saturday, it was reported.

A report from Johnson county, the home of McCormick, reported there was a controversy there over 32 absentee ballots.

It was stated that these 32 ballots were challenged and thrown out in Simpson precinct and that McCormick had gone to Marion to seek legal advice on getting them restored, and counted. Such a move, if successful, undoubtedly would favor the Johnson county candidate, as he carried his county 4,940 compared with Sullivan's 828. But it still might not give McCormick enough edge to overcome the lead by Sullivan, even if all were opened and counted.

With all the excitement throughout the district as a result of the close Sullivan-McCormick race, some of the counties of the 59th district did not total the votes received by Paul Powell, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for representative.

Complete unofficial returns showed Powell received 11,160 votes in Saline county, 4,324 in Hamilton, 2,076 in Hardin and 663 in Pope. He received 9,403 votes in 47 out of 52 Williamson county precincts with the total number unavailable until after the canvass is made. The Powell vote in Johnson and Massac also will not be known until after the county canvasses.

Nomination as representative means certain election, as three men are nominated and three are elected.

Army Says 2nd Division Has Not Been Alerted

Athens Report of Crete Base for Marines Also Denied

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department today categorically denied that the United States is speeding more American troops into the troubled Middle East to keep the peace.

A spokesman said there is absolutely no basis to reports that the 2nd U. S. Armored Division has been ordered from Germany to the Middle East or that negotiations are underway with Greece to station 1,000 U. S. Marines on the Mediterranean island of Crete.

At the same time the Army issued this statement: "The Department of the Army said today there is no truth to the report that the 2nd Armored Division, now stationed in Europe, has been ordered or alerted for movement to the Middle East."

An authoritative military source said in fact that "no serious" thought is being given at the present time to dispatch any additional U. S. forces to the Mediterranean area.

The United States has been relying on its Mediterranean 6th Fleet for ready forces in the area. This is being reinforced by a battalion of 1,500 Marines under plans announced some time ago.

Report from Athens

Officials said "the situation is always subject to change" but that there are no plans at the moment to further augment the 6th Fleet.

Reports that the United States was getting ready to reinforce its Middle East force came from Radio Athens which said this country had asked for permission to send 1,000 U. S. Marines to the Greek island of Crete.

The Hartford, Conn., Times said in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent that the 2nd Armored Division, now in Europe, has been ordered to move into the Middle East as rapidly as possible.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White—besieged by early morning inquiries on the reports—said the State Department knew "nothing" of any such plans.

He made the comment after checking high level State Department officials.

The flurry of troop movement reports obviously embarrassed the department. They came at a time when this government has been fully supporting the peace efforts of the United Nations and downplaying the possible use of force, No "Alert" Status

There was speculation that the Marines, who figured in the Athens report, may have been taking training exercises at several points in the Mediterranean area. Such training, which is normal, could be part of North Atlantic Treaty training exercises.

The military source, completely familiar with top-level Pentagon planning, said the 6th Fleet is not even on "an alert status" in the Mediterranean.

Fire Burns Lumber Yard, Post Office In Franklin County

WHITTINGTON, Ill. — A fire of unknown cause burned down a lumber yard and the post office here Wednesday night.

Three fire departments went to the small Franklin County community which does not have a department of its own. Fire Chief Leroy Sweeten of Benton said the lumber yard fire was raging by the time firemen from Benton, West Frankfort and Zeigler arrived. He said heat from the lumber fire set the post office burning 75 feet away.

No estimate has been made on the loss but both buildings were completely destroyed.

Socialite Found Stabbed to Death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police sought today the weapon wielded in the stabbing of a socialite found lying in a pool of blood by her husband when he returned home from work.

The body of Mrs. William W. Pugh, 34, clad in a robe and pajama tops, was found in the doorway of their exclusive Hyde Park home by her husband, president and treasurer of the A. H. Pugh Printing Co.

Police Lt. Charles Martin said the woman had been stabbed 14 times in the neck and upper chest and had wounds on both arms.

Capt. Willard Ebert said Mrs. Pugh apparently had been dead for three hours.

Antonelli Celebrates His 26th Birthday Again Tabbed As One of League's Best

By United Press
There'll be 26 candles on Johnny Antonelli's birthday cake today and the New York Giants won't be the least bit surprised if there'll be that many games in his "won" column this year.

The experts are tabbing the Giants as also-rans but don't be surprised if Antonelli has 'em off and running a la 1954 next week. He's wiped out the last lingering doubts over his ability to recover from his 1955 woes and once again is being tabbed as one of the league's top pitchers.

Antonelli, who was born April 12, 1930, climaxed a brilliant spring Wednesday with seven fine innings in a 5-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. The next time Antonelli tosses the slab probably will be next Tuesday against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Giants' opener.

Two Smash Homers

Gail Harris, and Bob Lennon hit homers and Hank Thompson collected three hits to lead the Giants' 10-hit attack on Early Wynn and Mike Garcia.

Bob Friend, who will be Antonelli's mound opponent next Tuesday, turned in his second nine-inning performance of the spring Wednesday in pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-3 win over the Kansas City Athletics. Friend limited the A's to seven hits.

Hank Sauer, acquired 10 days ago from the Chicago Cubs, and Stan Musial hit consecutive homers in the sixth inning to provide the St. Louis Cardinals with a 5-3 verdict over the Chicago White Sox.

The Washington Senators made an auspicious debut before a home crowd of 6,709 at Griffith Stadium, Washington, D. C. They defeated the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers, 2-1, in a night game. Pete Runnels won the game with an inside-the-park homer off Don Newcombe in the ninth.

In another night game, at Columbus, Ohio, rookie shortstop Jerry Lumpe committed three errors that led to five unearned runs and a 7-5 victory for the Cincinnati Redlegs over the New York Yankees.

The Baltimore Orioles beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-4, to win their spring series, 8-6, before making the 1956 home debut tonight. Don Ferrarese stopped a Cub rally in the ninth to preserve the victory.

The Milwaukee Braves and Detroit Tigers battled to a 14-inning scoreless tie at Terre Haute, Ind. The Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Phillies were rained out in Charlotte, N. C. The Phillies revealed that Curt Simmons has signed for an estimated $18,000. Simmons went to spring training with the Phillies on trial.

AAU Investigates Big Question: Will Wilt the Stilt Be Ruled a Pro?

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — An Amateur Athletic Union investigation may cost the University of Kansas the services of the fabulous seven-foot basketball player, Wilt Chamberlain.

Col. Harry D. Henshel, head of the Olympic Basketball Committee, has undisputed evidence that Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain "as a growing boy" played under an assumed name and against professionals in Cumberland, Md.

"Chamberlain was 16 years old when he played here—too young, probably, to know that he was doing wrong," says J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of The Evening Times in Cumberland. "I'm not condoning Chamberlain's act. I just don't consider it fair to single him out of hundreds of similar violations." But AAU rules interpret playing

Cardinals, Red Sox Most Improved IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — With the major league season getting underway next Tuesday, it's still the Yankees and the Dodgers as the teams to beat but a last minute survey shows that the Cardinals and Red Sox are the most improved clubs under the big top. Team by team, here's the way it looks:

American League

Yankees: Improved pitching with addition of Mickey McDermott and a whole year out of Don Larsen. Possible weakness at shortstop. Mickey Mantle's leg a nagging question mark from day to day.

Indians: Herb Score will be better but the old big three may be on the shady side of the hill. Porous infield. Ordinary bench.

White Sox: Well balanced but lack a fourth starting pitcher. Larry Doby helps power the outfield but Luis Aparicio still is a question at short.

Red Sox: The big lift. Pitching stock up with Mel Parnell coming back plus added Bob Porterfield and rookie Frank Baumann. Ted Williams sparks hopes. Double play combine the mystery.

Tigers: Good attack sparked by Al Kaline. Stumbling deficit at second, left field and in relief.

As: Good infield and fair power. The pitching is weak.

Senators: Youngest team in the league and will make an old man out of Chuck Dressen before season's end.

Orioles: Collection of buried has-beens and yet-to-be's.

National League

Dodgers: Still the best on power and finesse. The pitching may convince Walt Alton there's merit in the old saying "hero today, tomorrow a bum." But staggering they should make it.

Braves: Have power, experience and a good bench. Lacks fire and a second baseman, plus the improbable comeback of sore arm Gene Conley.

Cardinals: Youth matures with an explosion. Pitching better and Wilmer Mizell's return sparks the big jump. Catching the question.

Redlegs: Power-packed, sporting more muscles than the Olympic weight-lifting team. But it's the same sad, old story: No pitching.

Phillies: The ancient cast of characters, running longer than "Oklahoma." Curt Simmons' return to effectiveness is the big puzzle, along with who's on second.

Giants: Willie Mays, period. One man can't win the pennant. Simply too many question marks.

Cubs: Good infield. But the outfield is poor and the pitching is wobbly.

Pirates: Good young pitching but inexperience hurts.

So, in recapitulation, the Indians, White Sox or Red Sox would have to make everything work to dethrone the Yankees, with Detroit merely an outside chance.

In the National League, Brooklyn has to fall flat on its face and, even then, only the Braves and Cards hitting on all cylinders could hope to come home in front.

under an assumed name as fraud, with the penalty permanent disbarment.

Playing with professionals makes a combatant ineligible for further amateur competition, but such an offender may be reinstated.

Chamberlain's college career—he's an extraordinary all-round athlete—depends entirely on how the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Big Seven Conference interpret what constitutes professionalism.

COLONEL HENSHEL emphatically denies that the 19-year-old Chamberlain was made a special target because of the AAU official's $35,000 slander suit against Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen, who will be retired as Kansas' basketball coach with the close of the present term.

A note from a Philadelphia tipster tipped Colonel Henshel off to Chamberlain's appearance in Cumberland three years ago under the name of George Marcus.

"I was not concerned about Chamberlain unless he engaged in AAU competition or was a candidate for the Olympic team," explains Colonel Henshel.

Anyway, he wrote Sports Editor Kegg:

"I understand that you have recently written an article mentioning that Wilt Chamberlain (sic) played in your city under an assumed name while a senior in high school. Would appreciate any clippings re Chamberlain and 'stardom,' and any other information you would be kind enough to send me regarding Chamberlain playing 'outside' ball under his own or an assumed name.

"My informant advises that Chamberlain was a member of a team called 'Pittsburgh Raiders,' sent to your city by a Philadelphia booking agency. Could you give me the name and address of that agency? Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated and helpful in the cause of true amateurism."

IN CUMBERLAND, Chamberlain, as George Marcus, scored 44 points against the Cumberland Old Germans, who had Bob Pence as their playing coach. Pence, city recreation director, was a pro, having performed in the one-time All-American Conference. Also on the Cumberland staff were Lou Bell and George Gatz, pros.

When he matriculated at Kansas, Chamberlain immediately put himself in the spotlight. Why, people asked, did this Philadelphia school boy, sought by many colleges much nearer home, travel all the way to Lawrence, Kans., for higher education?

Tremendous pressure was brought to bear on Chamberlain, his parents and high school coach, and it has remained almost unbearable.

The AAU butting into young Chamberlain's and the colleges' business may seem totally uncalled for and trivial, as do so many of the stands taken by the badge and tuxedo wearers, but it could stir up a lot of trouble for Wilt the Stilt and Kansas.

It possibly could force "the world's greatest basketball player" to make $25,000 a year ahead of time.

The Philadelphia Warriors can't take Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain until his class is graduated, but there's always Abe Saperstein and the Harlem Globetrotters.

Gonzales-Trabert Clash to Feature Pro Tour at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Big Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, world's professional tennis champion, will be the feature attraction of Jack Kramer's famous tournament tour which is set for the Southern Illinois university gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. Monday, April 16.

Gonzales, who has the world's fastest known serve (it has been clocked at 112 miles per hour), will clash with the world's amateur champion, Tony Trabert, in the feature singles match of the evening.

Two other great names in tennis, Rex Hartwig of Australia and former world champion Francisco Segura of Ecuador, will meet in the preliminary singles match.

Following the singles' events, Gonzales will team with Segura to oppose Trabert and Hartwig in the feature doubles match.

The Gonzales-Trabert clash will be one of the 100 matches scheduled between the two on the special spring tour which began in Madison Square Garden and has extended to most major American cities.

Southern Illinois university is sponsoring the special tennis attraction as first of its type in the Carbondale area—as a service to southern Illinois sports fans. The admission price of $1.50 is only half of that charged for the same program in the nation's larger cities.

University officials said that if the matches are successful, SIU will sponsor additional major sports events in the Southern Illinois area.

Pitching Is Unnatural for Arm; 'It Gets Them All': Dr. Bennett

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "If a pitcher," Birdie Tebbets was saying, "comes to you and says he has a sore arm, that settles it. He should get no arguments. If the arm isn't sore, but he says it is, that's just as bad. You've got to take care of him. An injury in the mind is just as bad as if it were real."

The Cincinnati manager was talking about the annual rash of sore arms which has hit pitchers working their way north for the baseball openers. It is a cinch that when a pitcher comes up with a bad arm, sooner or later somebody will growl, "It doesn't hurt him, he just says it does."

And, in return, the player will snarl, "It's my arm and it hurts." This spring, for example, Curt Simmons of the Phillies, Billy Loes and Karl Spooner of the Dodgers and Gene Conley of the Braves made hospital visits.

More than a few cling to the idea that the old-timers never seemed to run into so much trouble with their arms. But Dr. George Bennett of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, who is rated top man at revamping a bum wing, differs. "Pitching is a most unnatural motion," he says. "The shoulder wasn't constructed to throw a baseball. You'll notice that after a pitcher has been around for 10 years, he starts bringing his motion down to a sidearm. The overhead is too much on his arm."

Loes maintains this. The always-promising right-hander came down with a throbbing shoulder in the middle of last season and, he wound up in a hospital this spring. "It's got to get you," Billy says. "Your arm can't take it. Sooner or later, it's got to get you. I can't even drive a car or use a fork. My shoulder kills me everytime I move it."

Just what happens to an arm to constitute "trouble?" "You can't draw up a list off-hand," Dr. Bennett says. "There are any number of things that can happen to an elbow or shoulder. The common newspaper phrase for an elbow is 'bone chips.' There is no such thing. There is a flaking off of cartilage in the elbow. Deposits form in the shoulder, too. You have a bony growth. All these things can and do happen to pitchers. The unnatural motions causes it."

It happens, major leaguers claim, to the overhead thrower first. The straight-down motion is too much on the back, shoulder and elbow.

"I found a three-quarter overhead motion the easiest," Ralph Branca, the old Dodger, says. "You let the ball go from way out and it seems easy."

The average number of times a pitcher has to rear back and wrack his arm is about 125 times a game, baseball staticians figure. The next day, his arm — from shoulder to elbow — is stiff and puffy. It takes two days before it can be used even for leisurely batting practice throwing. "Does that sound like a natural thing, something good for you?" Loes asks. "There's guys on the shelf every day. Some never come back. You can count them. But you can't count the ones who take their turn every time and got to pitch through pain the whole game. It hurts with every pitch."

"They do it until they can't stand it any more. Then they are listed as having a 'sore arm.' They've had it for a long time."

"You believe them," Birdie Tebbets insists. "They're not kidding you."

"An arm can hurt until you want to scream."

Larry Doby feared lost for Indefinite Period Due to Skin Infection

INDIANAPOLIS — Slugger Larry Doby was feared lost to the Chicago White Sox for an indefinite period today as a result of a chronic skin infection he contracted in the South Pacific during World War II.

Trainer Eddie Froelich ordered Doby, who had a spring batting average of .425, to fly to Chicago today to be treated by club physician Dr. John Claride. Doby, acquired from the Cleveland Indians during the winter, had the infection on his right hand when he reported this spring and it has grown steadily worse despite Froelich's treatment.

The Secret of Hidden Treasures

The CLUE—COLUMBIA AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE—it has hidden treasures which are not recognized by all.

COLUMBIA AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE not only sweetens soil, adds calcium, but makes it possible to raise legumes which add tillth to the soil.

According to the results from the University of Illinois Brownstown Experimental Field, this is clearly demonstrated.

On the area of the field, which has been limed since 1940, and where clovers were plowed under, the corn yields, with LIMESTONE, potash, phosphate and nitrogen, was 97 bushels per acre.

On a new area, without legumes, but with the same amount of LIMESTONE, potash, phosphate and nitrogen, the yield was 42 bushels per acre.

LIMESTONE and LEGUMES are the farmer's greatest guarantee against crop failures, especially in bad years. Don't forget to satisfy your LIMESTONE REQUIREMENTS FIRST! Let:

Ewell Harris, Galatia, Illinois
Ralph Carpenter, Eldorado, Illinois
supply COLUMBIA 2200 LIMESTONE, which will give you hidden treasure in your soil.

THE STORY: Mike Morrison, an American caught by the German invasion of Greece in 1941, now realizes that the "innocent paper" he was asked to deliver was for British Intelligence. Now he is in an Anzac uniform, trying desperately to get out of the country, and being sought by two men either of whom, or both, might kill him to get the paper. The retreat has reached the southern part of Greece.

VIII

Morrison saw the Aussie Captain and the Palestinian Sergeant walking in his direction. He ducked behind a tree but he heard their voices as they passed. "The Germans have entered Athens."

The full weight of the news crashed down on Michael Morrison. The Germans would regroup at Athens, and a day, maybe two, would find them rampaging down the Peloponnese. The enemy in the sky would not be the only menace now.

A motor convoy of 30 trucks came to a halt on the dirt road a quarter of a mile from the wooded area. All organization seemed to disintegrate. The soldiers poured from the woods and boarded the trucks. They needed no prodding from the NCO's to hurry.

No choice but to join them. Take the ever-narrowing gamble that Mosley and the little man would not find him. Take the slim, slim chance the British might yet escape.

He hustled through the woods to a point where the road ran close. The trucks sped by. As the last truck bore down he stepped into its path and waved. The vehicle slowed enough for him to race around back. A half dozen reaching hands pulled him in.

The Dunkirk on Wheels came down from the mountains and stopped in the town of Kalamai on the Gulf of Messinia. This was no place farther to run.

The truck rolled into the square. Three Stukas spotted it immediately.

Mike dashed across the square. Suddenly his feet flew out from under him. He had stumbled over a dead horse. He lay there for several seconds, mesmerized, looking into the animal's eyes. They seemed to be mocking him, saying, "It isn't my war, either." Mike backed away from the horse and ran for a row of nearby houses. As a rack of bombs hit the square he half-threw himself down a flight of steps into a cellar.

Covering against a wall were an old man and three women. One woman clutched a screaming infant. The old man crossed himself and prayed softly. Another woman was becoming hysterical. Mike turned his eyes from the sight.

Three hours passed before the planes ceased the attack. Mike staggered from the cellar into twilight. The ashes of Kalamai smoldered. The dead horse with the mocking eyes was still lying in the town square.

Mike stumbled down the road from town. A passing truck stopped for him and drove him to a woods which ended about a mile from the sea. Here, the remains of the late British Expeditionary Force awaited evacuation.

Mike stretched out in his fox-hole and looked at the blue sky above him and thought of the dead horse in Kalamai. He thought of the whole fantastic adventure. Almost unconsciously his hand reached inside the breast pocket of the khaki tunic. He held the small white envelope up to his eyes.

He frowned as he studied it. Scrawled in Fotis Stergiou's elegant hand, the envelope read: "Sir Thomas Whitely — 12 Beauchamp Place, London S. W. 3. Kindly deliver in person."

Mike bit his lip as the impulse overwhelmed him. He ripped the seal open and his fingers dug inside nervously. There was one small folded sheet of paper. He sat up and unfolded the sheet.

In Stergiou's fine writing, there was a list of names and cities. The reverse side was blank.

He looked at the names listed. Obviously not Greeks — if they were, this was some type of code. Mike was a bit deflated. By this time he expected no less than some secret formula.

He read down the list of names: Jon Petersen, Johannesburg. Lorrie Daniels, Sydney. Elmer Jackson, Montreal.

Mike was burning with curiosity. Who were these people and what was the meaning of the list? Each new guess only made him the more curious. Well, one thing was certain. Whoever they were was of extreme importance to both the British and the Germans.

The people who were after these names certainly put no price on human life. If the names were known on him, he was as good as dead. What if the names were not on him? He might have a chance even if the evacuation didn't come off. Suppose he memorized the names — it would be simple — only take a few moments.

There was another reason in back of Morrison's mind. A reason he would not even admit to himself. The experiences of the past days had done much to knock the spirit of neutrality from his soul.

He sighed and wondered if he was crazy. He memorized the list, tore the paper to shreds and scattered the pieces to the wind.

He looked over the vast expanse of water and on the horizon saw the first of many little black dots. Ships were moving into the Bay of Messini!

"BRING YOUR PAINT PROBLEMS TO PAINT PEOPLE"

Proclaims Youth Day for April 20

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton has proclaimed Friday, April 20, as "Youth Day in Illinois," directing attention to the need for continued study and planning in the field of youth welfare.

The date was selected to coincide with the concluding day of the 25th annual Governor's Conference on Youth and Community Service, which is to be held at Hotel Sherman, Chicago, April 19 and 20.

Governor Stratton plans to attend the annual conference luncheon on "Youth Day" and greet the delegates. More than 1,000 persons from all parts of the state are expected to attend the two-day meeting.

In his proclamation, Governor Stratton pointed out that the 1956 conference rounds out "a quarter century of work and meetings by Illinois citizens who are deeply interested in the sound social training of youth."

"The addresses and other activities of this conference," the proclamation reads, "will call to mind the achievements of the men and women who have devoted their lives to this field of work, and will direct added attention to the continuing program of the Illinois Youth Commission."

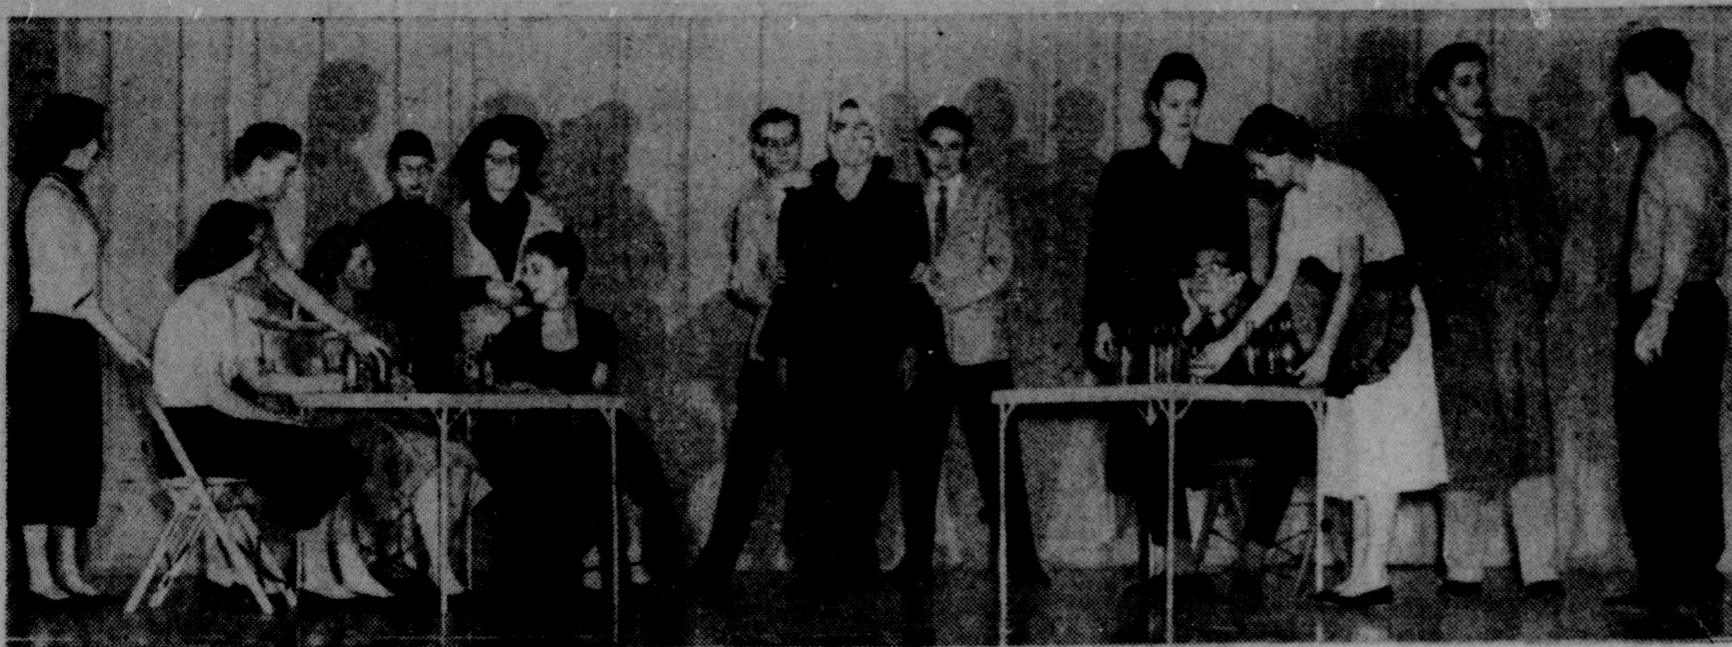

The Governor's Conference, believed to be the oldest statewide conference on youth problems in the country, is sponsored by the Illinois Youth Commission's Division of Community Services.

Stratton to Speak To State Historical Society on May 18

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton will share speaking honors with Dr. William T. Hutchinson of the University of Chicago, biographer of former Governor Frank O. Among the other speakers on the two-day program of talks and tours on May 18-19 will be Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, who will speak about her father, Sculptor Lorado Taft; President Leland Carlsson of Rockford College; Dr. Stewart Thompson, University of Minnesota; Roger Thompson of the Dixon Telegraph staff; and George Pownall of Springfield, director of the Illinois Junior Historian program.

The tours will include visits to the estates of Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen and Governor Lowden. Two hundred amateur and professional historians are expected to attend.

Baby Shower and Baby Run Dead Heat

NEWTON, Kan. — Mrs. Marvin Evert received something extra at her baby shower—the baby.

A speedup by nature put Mrs. Evert in the hospital the night her friends had scheduled the gift party. In labor, she went with her husband from the hospital to the party scene only a short distance away. After a brief appearance, she hurried back to the hospital and soon became the mother of a son, Warren M. Evert.

Federal Bureau Classifies Three Kentucky Mines Gassy

WASHINGTON — The Federal Coal Mine Safety Board of Review today upheld with certain reservations the Bureau of Mines' classification of Inland Steel Co. mines in Kentucky as gassy.

Inland claimed that the bureau lacked authority to rule the mines gassy because it has no director. It claimed an acting director can not serve more than 30 days.

The bureau has been without a director since Dec. 1 when John F. Forbes retired. Thomas Miller has been acting director since then.

The Mine Safety Board said, "We are of the opinion that the board cannot determine such collateral issues in this proceeding."

The mines bureau issued the classifications for Inland's Wheelwright, Ky., No. 3 mine, which, it said, constitutes four mines because of underground connections with Wheelwright's Nos. 1 and 2 and Buckingham mines.

Kids Speak Out; Parents Scored

PIERRE, S. D. — Some parents would be shocked to hear what their children think of them.

Small fry opinions of what's right and wrong about the way they're being reared came to light in fourth, fifth and sixth grade classrooms here. The children were asked to do essays, unsigned, on what they thought of parents.

Much of their advice was in the form of gripes. One child thought his parents should "cooperate with each other." Another wished his parents "would talk in a quieter tone" and not be so strict and absolute in their decisions.

One sixth-grader hoped his parents would "stop babying me like I was four years old and stop questioning me every time I go someplace or do something with my friends." Parents were criticized as "a little stuffy" or "bossy."

Some of the children couldn't understand why parents don't punish themselves for misdeeds.

One perplexed child wrote: "When I drop something or knock something over, I get heck for it. But when they do, they don't do anything to themselves."

Introducing Lever Brothers' new non-dairy spread for bread!

Imperial

Keep in refrigerator to protect perfect flavor

THE FIRST MARGARINE
UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED TO TASTE LIKE
THE HIGH-PRICED SPREAD!

All you need to do is try it once! You can taste that Imperial is a completely new kind of margarine... a product so superior that it carries a guarantee never before made in all of margarine history. But then, there's never been a margarine like it! Imperial is the first margarine unconditionally guaranteed to bring you the tantalizing flavor formerly found only in the expensive spread for bread.

Imperial's Got That Flavor

Flavor is what's been missing in margarine. And flavor is what Lever Brothers devoted seven years to achieve... seven years of testing formula after formula to bring you the incomparable flavor of the expensive spread for bread. It wasn't hard to make Imperial spread smoother and easier than any other margarine. And it wasn't hard to make Imperial as nutritious as even the most expensive spread you can buy. The trick was flavor. And Imperial is the first margarine to capture and hold that unmistakable flavor everybody loves.

Tastes Like the High-Priced Spread

We know you may find it hard to believe that a margarine could live up to all we claim for Imperial. So, we want you to give Imperial the toughest tests you know. Spread Imperial on bread or toast... use it for seasoning vegetables... plopp a generous chunk of Imperial in your frying pan and set it sizzling with eggs for your fussy husband. Any way, and every way, new Imperial tastes like the high-priced spread.

Aroma to Match That Flavor

Imperial's superiority shows itself in many ways—as a matter of fact—in every way you use it. For instance, when you fry with Imperial, just lean over and sniff its sweet, fresh goodness. Imperial smells so good it makes you hungry just watching it melt. Hot or cold, in your frying pan, or spread on bread, Imperial is the one margarine you'll never have to make excuses for—no matter how fussy the company.

You Agree, or We Return Your Money!

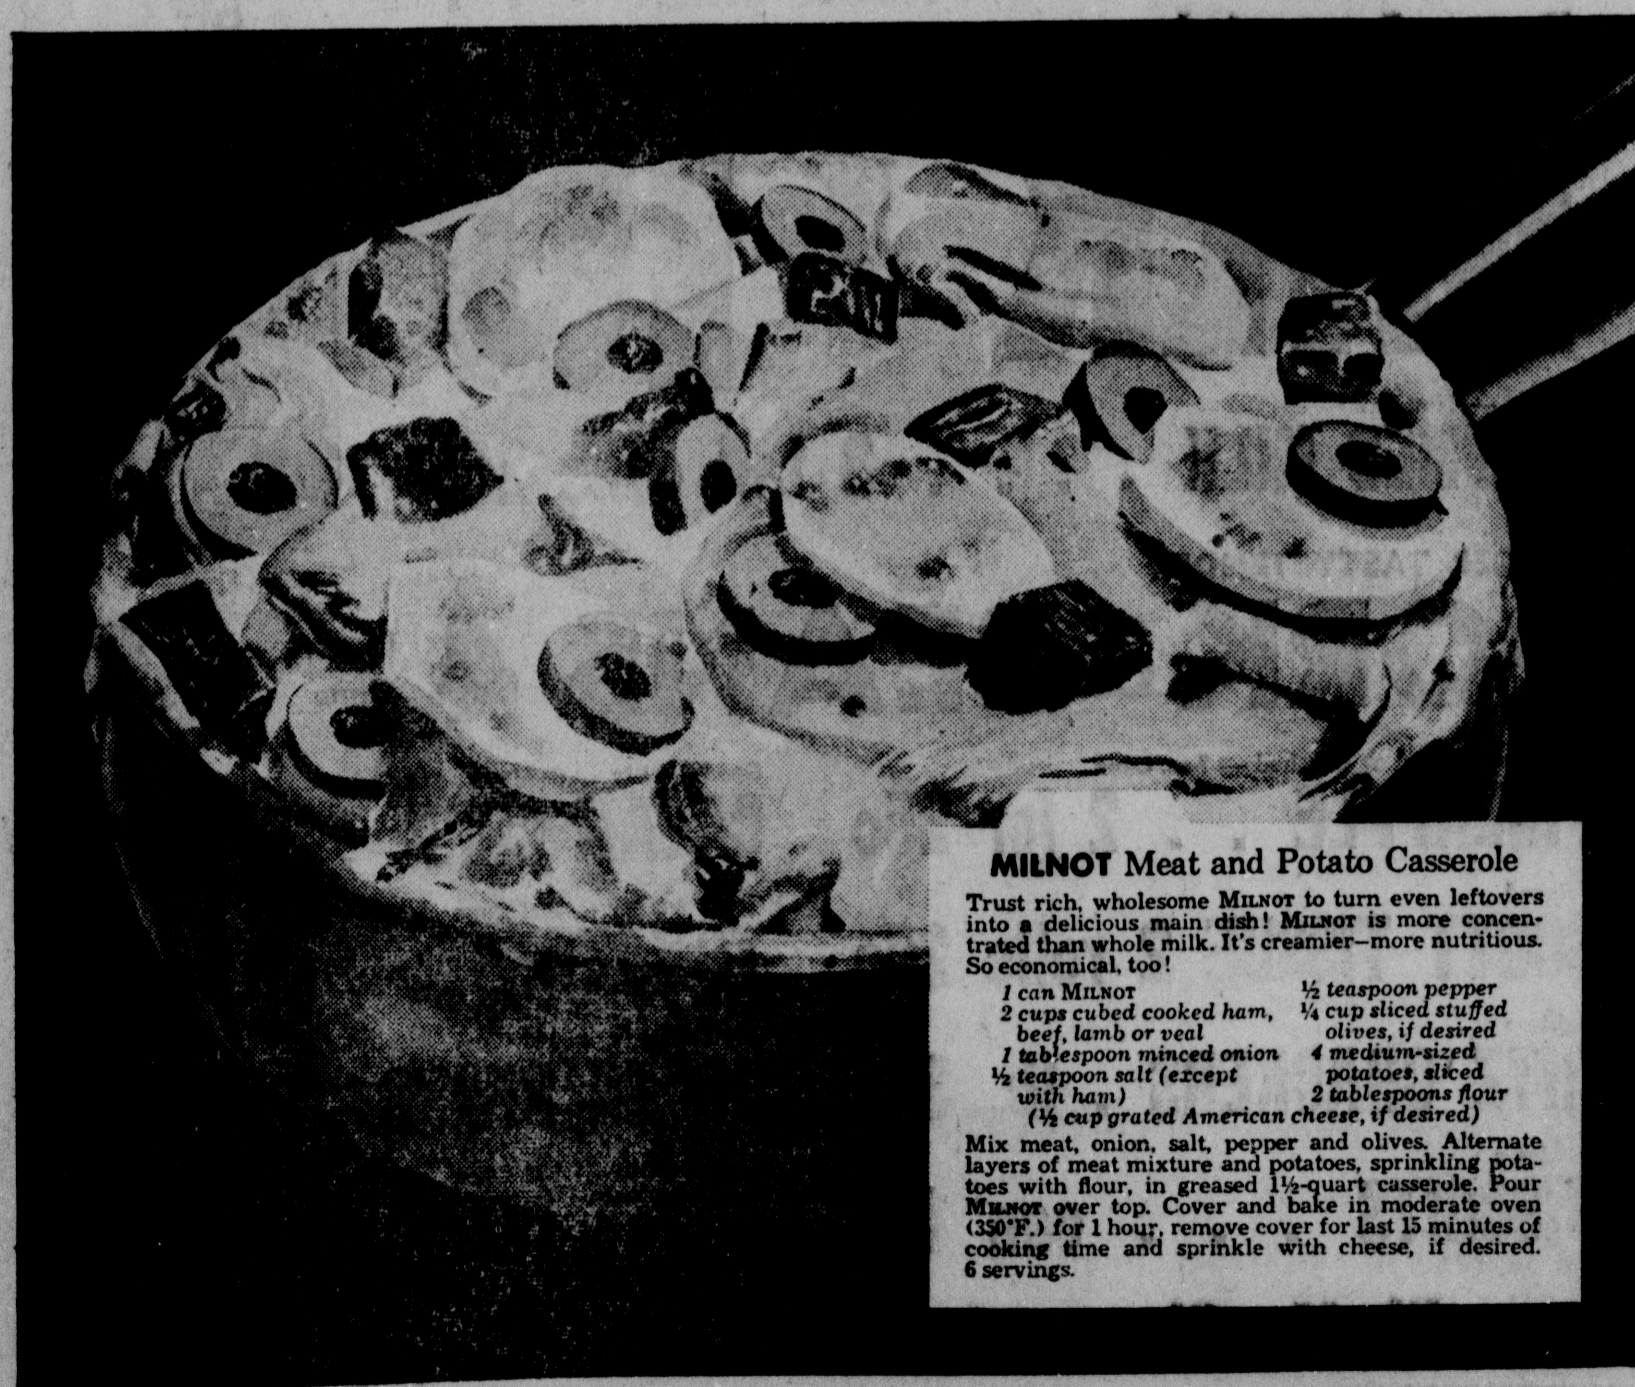

Try Imperial and see. Remember—when you take home a pound of Imperial, you're not buying, you're just trying. Because Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees Imperial will taste like the high-priced spread to you, or they'll return every penny you spent to try it.

P.S. Like the high-priced spread, Imperial is delicate and perishable. So to protect its perfect flavor, always keep Imperial in your refrigerator!

DON'T CHANGE YOUR TASTE! JUST CHANGE TO IMPERIAL!
